Fair words for the laborer. It is not that we ask for labor to be rich, and labor to be poor. And labor is not to be rich, and labor is not to be poor. But labor is to be rich, and labor is to be poor. By head or by hand, and labor is to be rich, and labor is to be poor. By head or by hand, and labor is to be rich, and labor is to be poor. By head or by hand, and labor is to be rich, and labor is to be poor.

Adam, Alva's Achievements and Adventures--An Authentic Account--Ann Arbor, Author, April, Anno Domini, 1881.

Almost an age ago, abode at Andover, Adam Alva, Avocation, artist, able and accomplished, active and ambitious, all admired Adam. An adept at almost anything, Adam also acted as an assistant at an Academy, affording aid at arithmetic, algebra, astronomy, and so forth. Adam's affluence Aunt Almira also abode at Andover, and although austere and arbitrary, and an aristocrat, appreciated Adam's astonishing achievements and abundantly administered aid, assigning an annual allowance, Aeschylus Ashley, anxious and aimless, artful and audacious, attended Academy, and after awhile attempted attracting and alluring Adam, appearing awfully affectionate, assuming affecting attitudes, and, altogether, acting abominably. Adam, already affianced, avoided all Aeschylus's advances, and, although annoyed assiduously, attended accustomed avocation. Again and again Aeschylus attempted alienating Adam's affection. Adam, always affable and amiable, averse at avenging an affront, and anxiously avoiding an altercation, asked an absence, and about autumn abruptly absconded. Arriving at Australia after awhile, Adam attempted agriculture. Also acted as an attorney, amicably adjusting all annoyances and animosities among Australians. Aeschylus, ascertaining about Adam's absence, appeared abstracted, and actually ate arsenic, and awaited angel's apparel. Aeschylus, acute and asthmatic, and almost annihilated Adam. Anxious Australians attended and administered alleviations and anodynes. Alas! Alas! athletic Adam! Alien and alone, altered and aged amazingly, appetite abating, abject, actually asking alms, and anxious about affianced Aunt Almira. Adam's aspect appeared alarming. After awhile Adam's atmosphere alluring, an accommodating atmosphere accompanied Adam across Asia, across Atlantic, arriving about April at Andover, at Aunt Almira's abode, attended and almost an apparition, ate allopathic advice, ate alcohol and active astringents. Arabella and Allen, an authoress, and Adam's affinity, awe-struck and appalled, also attentively aided. Adam acquiesced amicably. After awhile ate apples, apricots, asparagus, and so forth, albeit ate abstemiously. Afflicted and afflicted, Adam assayed annulling allegiance. Arabella, artless and amiable as an angel, avowed allegiance, answered: "Away all absurd arguments! Absence and abjections abate affection? All apologies avail!" "Angelic Arabella," answered Adam, "always admired and adored above all amid all adroit admirers except Adam, and Adam's adieu and adieu!" "Aye, aye, assuredly!" assented Arabella. "Amen," amusingly answered Adam. Accordingly, another autumn, Aunt Almira aiding, abetting and accelerating arrangements, Adam and Arabella, at an altar, acknowledged allegiance, and afterward, ailments arrested and appetite augmented, art again absorbed all Adam's attention, and, although an amateur, after awhile attained as an appellation "Another Angelo."

The New Scientific American Office.

We are glad to announce that the Scientific American came out of the late fire in New York, like fabled Phoenix, with renewed life. The subscription lists, account books, patent records, patent drawings, and correspondence were preserved in massive fire-proof safes. The printing of the Scientific American and Supplement was done in another building; consequently the types, plates, presses, paper, etc., were unharmed, and no interruption of business was occasioned. The new Scientific American office is located at 261 Broadway, corner of Warren Street, a very central and excellent situation. The new building fronts towards the City Hall, the Court-House, and the New Post-office, a magnificent structure, which cost eight millions to build. Nearly opposite, and a few hundred feet distant from the Scientific American offices, is the entrance to the Great Suspension Bridge over the East River, which required ten years to construct and twenty millions of dollars to pay for. The new offices are admirably chosen for active business. Here, in addition to the issuing of their interesting publications, Messrs. Munn & Co., aided by trained examiners and draughtsmen, prepare specifications and drawings for American and Foreign patents. If any of our readers should happen to make a new discovery (we hope every one of them may do so, and gain a fortune) they have only to drop a line to Munn & Co., 261 Broadway, New York, who will reply at once, without charge, stating whether the invention is probably novel and patentable. A handbook of instructions, with full particulars, will also be sent, free. Messrs. Munn & Co. have had over thirty-five years' experience in the business.

An innocent-looking young man, traveling on a train from St. Paul to Chicago, was observed suddenly to reach up and pull the bell-rope. The train, of course, came at once to a stand-still, while the conductor and porter rushed into the car to ascertain the cause for the detention. "Gentlemen," explained the young man, "you must excuse me. I wanted the porter, who was in the 'forward' end of the car, to make up my bed, and thought that if I pulled the rope that would fetch him."

A queer and fatal disease has made its appearance among the mules in Buchanan county, Mo. They work well and feel all right up to the very moment of their death, which comes as suddenly as if struck by lightning. Post mortem examination shows a bunch of worms in the stomach, from which it is supposed death is caused.

The President's Salary and Emoluments.

The presidential salary of twenty-five thousand dollars a year was fixed by Congress when Washington was President. But Washington declined to take it, and from patriotic and disinterested motives gave his time to his country without compensation, requiring simply the payment of his necessary expenses by the Government. It is difficult in those sordid days to find a man who can rise to any adequate conception even of the elevated patriotism and disinterestedness of Washington.

Inasmuch as the Government provides and keeps up a furnished house for the President to live in, and pays the chief part of the expenses of the house, the President of the United States would altogether be the best paid officer in the country with a salary fixed at ten thousand dollars a year. But there has always been a disposition in Congress to exalt the office of President by a profuse lavishness of money on it. And although the salary remained for many years at $25,000 a year, yet the emoluments were from time to time increased until the annual expenses of the Executive Mansion reached about sixty thousand dollars. And in 1873, the President's salary was increased to $50,000 a year, without any reduction in his emoluments. This excessive increase of the salary and emoluments of the President cannot be accounted for on any other ground than a disposition to exalt him, as far as practicable, into the dignity of a king.

"The natural inclination of mankind to kingly government," mentioned by Dr. Franklin, arises from one of the weakest traits of the human mind, that of hero worship, wholly incompatible with the vigor of thought and manly independence of the true American citizen. [American Register.]

Something for Nothing.

All newspaper publishers have had experience with men who want to advertise themselves or their business in newspapers without cost to themselves. It is pitiable to see the shabby means they take to attain the end they have in view. Men, who would feel insulted if they were called dead beats, will with blind effrontery ask a publisher to "please mention so and so" (an advertisement), or, handing in what is really an advertisement under the guise of a communication, they will say, "Here's a little item that will help you to fill up with." Men who do this--and there are some in every town--call themselves honorable and would not think of asking a real estate owner to let them use one of his houses a few months for nothing; nor would they ask him to let them cultivate and use a part of his farm, without expecting to have to pay rent for it.

The advertising columns of his paper is to the publisher what the house or farm is to the real estate owner--his source of income. Why any one should expect the newspaper publisher to be more generous in squandering his substance than other business men is something that cannot be accounted for, except on the supposition that some people have an idiotic idea that printers set up type for the love of the work, and that ink and type and printing presses are gifts from heaven to sinful men, who publish newspapers merely for the purpose of smoothing the gateway of their fellow-men on the rugged road to fortune, and who hope not for reward this side of the grave. [Texas Siftings.]

Tied Him Wrong.

Ben. Selby, of Ripleyville, recently purchased a horse for his own use, but before closing the trade he asked the owner of the horse if he would jump. "Yes," replied the horse man, "he's a great jumper; but if you tie a hickory with around his neck right tight, he won't try to jump."

The trade was closed, and Ben. took his new purchase home with him. He cut a hickory with, tied it around his horse's neck, and turned him out to graze. When he was tired of his confinement, he walked up to a tolerably high fence, threw up the yoke and jumped it clear, much to Ben's astonishment and disappointment.

Within a few days Ben. met the gentleman from whom he had purchased the horse, and told him about the animal jumping the fence.

"That's strange," said the sharp horse trader; "did you tie the hickory with around his neck as I told you?"

"Yes," said Ben; "but he walked up to the fence, threw up his head and loped right over."

"What! Did you cut the wither?"

"Why, of course I did."

"Well, that accounts for it. If you had left it growing in the ground, as you ought to have done, he wouldn't have tried to jump."

Ben. saw the point, and realizing that he was beaten, he resolved to make the best of his trade. He knows now how to prevent a horse from jumping, and recommends the remedy to all his friends who have jumping horses. [Anderson News.]

CONVERSATIONALISTS.--Metternich once said: In my whole life I have only known ten or twelve persons with whom it is pleasant to speak--that is, who keep to the subject, do not repeat themselves and do not talk of themselves; men who do not listen to their own voice, who are cultivated enough not to lose themselves in common places; and lastly, who possess tact and good sense enough not to elevate their own person above their subjects.

It is a mistake to think of the present Chief of the Cherokees as a painted savage, with feathers in his hair and a tomahawk in his hand. A man who lately saw him says: "I found a polished and highly educated gentleman. He was dressed in broadcloth, with faultless linen front, from which sparkled a brilliant emerald."

The peppermint crop of the United States reaches about 70,000 pounds a year, of which 30,000 pounds are exported. Two-thirds of the peppermint oil of this country is produced in New York, and about one-third in Michigan.

A SMALLPOX PREVENTIVE.--A correspondent sends in the following: "There is no better or surer protection from smallpox than Barry's Prophylactic Fluid (an unfailing safe). A wonderful healing remedy and a most powerful disinfectant that will effectually eradicate the germs of disease, prevent its spreading and effect a cure, and is perfectly safe to use. It is endorsed and recommended by eminent physicians and chemists."

A Project to Pipe Gas Two Hundred and Fifty Miles.

A company of well known capitalists have organized the "Gas Light Transportation Company," to mine coal and manufacture gas in Pennsylvania, and pipe the gas to Eastern cities. A director of the company recently said that they propose to erect gas works that will manufacture 40,000,000 feet of gas per day. This would require 1,460,000 tons of coal annually. The coal can be bought at the mines for 55 cents per ton, but the gas companies pay $4.62 per ton for it. They save something by the sale of coke, tar, and ammoniacal liquor, so that their coal costs them $3.14 per ton, or 32 cents a thousand cubic feet of gas manufactured. One great saving expected by the new company is the cost of coal and in the transportation. Another saving will come, they think, from the freshness of the coal, since coal newly mined produces more and better gas than coal that has been exposed to the air and weather. The cost of pumping the gas is offset by the value of the coal. The deterioration of gas in the long pipe they expect to counterbalance by making the gas extra rich a first. The pipe is to be of iron, six feet in diameter, laid in hydraulic cement.

An old farmer in the back part of the county, who is noted for his cross, crabbed ways, being very low with typhoid fever, was requested by his wife to have the minister call upon him. "What for?" he asked. "To pray for you, of course," was the reply. "Me!" shouted the old man. "I'm a Granger clear to the backbone, and won't permit any middle man to fool around between me and Almighty God! The minister was not called."

A Greenback paper says: Let the people demand that not a single national bank be rechartered. This will put the brakes on one source of monopoly. If a corporation can issue and have control of our money, is it not fair to suppose that the said corporation will manipulate it to suit their greed, let the damage come where it will. Would it not be far safer in the hands of the government?

By breathing as rapidly as possible Dr. Yates was enabled to endure a surgical operation. He says: "I heard the knife rip through the flesh, like the sound produced in cutting leather, but I did not feel the pain."

FEES AND DOCTORS.--The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of daily visits, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness. [Post.]

A Washington correspondent has interviewed the office seekers from Kentucky on the Jacobs candidacy for the Court of Appeals, and they all say in substance that they are for the man who wore the blue. Colonel Faulkner, of Garrard, who is there trying for a Marshalship, says: "I am always in favor of a union soldier over a confederate." That's the feeling of all republicans, and on the rule of judging other people by themselves, they attribute a like feeling to the democrat who fought for the lost cause. But the true democrat is above that. He judges a man's qualifications by his actions of the past, and not by the clothes he wore twenty years ago.

It is said that there are grave grounds for impeachment against the Supreme Court of Tennessee. The decision against the act compromising the debt of the State at 3-per-cent. interest, is charged as not only being contrary to law, but that it was made and given out in advance of its formal announcement, to be used for stock jobbing purposes. It is just as like as not that the charges are true. The people have lost their confidence in the integrity and uprightness of judges since the infamous decision in the Electoral Commission.

The Glasgow Times talks horse sense like this: "It is about time to abandon the declaration that Kentucky's honor is bound up in the payment of the expenses of the military expedition to Yorktown. Gov. Blackburn's pledge that the State would meet any reasonable expenditure, was altogether gratuitous. He had no more authority to pledge the credit of the State than the coroner of Greenup county. All schemes which forestall the action of the people, should be effectually squelched."

JAMES HIXON, of the Appellate Bench, is health-seeking in Florida. The Legislature should pass a law at its present session to prevent anyone hereafter from running for Appellate Judge, who does not present a doctor's certificate that he is sound in mind, limb and so forth, and who does not sign an obligation that the public's business shall have precedence over his own private affairs. If they will do this, a Superior Court will never be thought of again.

Since a number of children of a public school in Montreal were discovered with mustard plaster on various portions of their bodies, as a punishment for breaking the rules, a society for the prevention of cruelty to children has been formed. The originator and champion user of the above novel mode of punishment, is a woman, who was very promptly shot from her position.

The Owensboro Post in speaking of county attorneys, very truly says that a proper discharge of the duties of their office demands the best order of legal talent. That officer is called on to represent the fiscal interests of the county and also the Commonwealth in the most important criminal cases. In so doing he must contend with the best lawyers at the bar.

Those who paid $10 to $25 for tickets to hear Patti sing at the Cincinnati Opera Festival, are likely to fail to get even a glimpse of the famous, though naughty prima donna. She has a little sore throat; that is, she says she has, but the ticket holders don't believe it, and think that a bird that can and wout sing, ought to be made to.

To Governor Blackburn's abuse of the pardoning power is attributed the flood of crime that is now deluging the State, from one end to the other. He is the friend that stands between the criminals and danger, and he has never yet been known to go back on one, when in distress.

Bumma answers Duke in another of his tame effusions. The old butcher is well aware that all that is said against him by Confederates strengthens him with the administration, and he therefore courts abuse from that quarter.

A PETITION 5,000 feet long asking the abolishment of the unjust two-cent stamp-tax on bank checks has been presented to Congress. It is thought that the tax will be repealed during the present session.

The Louisville Commercial ceases giving the Jacobites tatty long enough to rage like a heathen over the proposed new apportionment bill. We suppose its wants, but pshaw, it don't know itself what it does want.

There are strong evidences of an approaching panic in the New York stock market.

The New York Sun warns the republican party as follows: "The subsidy and loot policy was tried between 1866 and 1874, and it worked destruction on its promoters. It overthrew the republican majority in both Houses of Congress. It elected a democratic president in 1876. Secor Robeson invites the republican party, with such democrats in Congress as are disposed to fall into line, to return to the methods and purposes of Grantism. The very appearance of this man's impudent face, still flushed with the stolen wine of the old debauches, ought to shame the republican leaders back into their senses."

The Tammany members of the New York Legislature have gone squarely over to the republicans, and now if the democratic party has the back-bone to kick John Kelly clean out of it, it will save time, trouble and principle. Honoring the old traitor, and allowing Tilden to take a back seat instead of giving him the Presidential nomination in 1880, very probably lost us the last election.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College at Lexington was dedicated Wednesday, the whole legislature leaving their business to attend. Waterson made a capital speech, and so did several others, while quite a number of others got drunk. The spread cost the city of Lexington many a dollar which would have been better applied in remodeling her topple down old Court-house.

SENATORS Riddleberger and Smith had some hot words in a debate in the Virginia Legislature, Tuesday, and for a while the pale face of the moon was obscured with blood, but friends interfered and the threatened duel was prevented, much to the disgust of those who would like to see a couple of repudiators blow each other's brains out.

It is said that Dr. Standford is willing to have gubernatorial honors thrust upon him. He is a level-headed man, and would fill the office admirably, but he'll have to drop the title of "Doctor" if he wants office in this State. Dr. Blackburn has sickened the people out on Doctors.

The Louisville Commercial puts the conundrum: "Does not the desire to establish a Superior Court carry with it the inference that our Court of Appeals is perhaps an inferior sort of a Court?" It do, sir, it do for a fact.

Action of Democratic Committee.
Some dissatisfaction having been expressed at the change of the voting place from Turnersville to McKloney, a meeting of the Committee was called, when it was ordered that the former action be rescinded and that the vote at the approaching primary election be taken at the usual place in Turnersville. By order of the Committee.
W. G. WELCH, Chm'n.

LEGISLATIVE.

The Legislature was not in session Wednesday, having gone in a body to eat Lexington's bribe for the continuance of the unconstitutional tax for the A. and M. College.

Senator Blain had his bill to give W. G. Dunn, of Garrard, an 18-year-old minor, the right to transact business in his own name, passed by the Senate, notwithstanding the committee had reported adversely on it.

A bill is being discussed in the House to give Circuit Clerk's 20 per cent. of the fines and forfeitures which may hereafter be paid by virtue of any judgment in favor of the Commonwealth in their respective Courts.

A resolution to request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to have a law passed to give the States one-sixth of all the revenue derived from tax on whiskey and other liquors, to be used for Common School purposes, is before the House.

A bill was introduced in the Senate yesterday to put Trustees of the Jury Fund in all other counties on a par with that of Jefferson county by increasing their commissions from three to five per cent., but the Senate wisely took the short cut by reducing the commission of the latter office from five to three per cent. [Courier-Journal.]

The House passed a bill which will make it a little harder for aspiring youths and others to obtain license to practice law. It provides that the applicant must have a certificate from the county court that he has studied law for two years; that he is a man of probity, honesty, and good character, and he is then to appear before a board appointed by the circuit court for examination; and if said board passes upon his capacity, the circuit clerk is to issue his license. He is to pay the clerk $10 for his license, and at the end of six months the clerk is to pay all of said fees over to the examiners for their benefit.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

Venor says this week will close with a big, general snow storm.

The Ohio House has passed a bill prohibiting the killing of quail in that State till 1885.

Mrs. Garfield very emphatically declares that she has ever petitioned the President to pardon the assassin of her husband.

There is a decided panic in the Cotton market, occasioned by the recent heavy decline in prices.

Five men were run over and killed by a train in a tunnel of the Baltimore and Potomac railroad.

The President has nominated John C. New, editor of the Indianapolis Journal, for assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

A court-martial for the trial of Sergeant Mason, who shot at the assassin Galt, is to meet in Washington on the 20th inst.

Lexington was fined $500 in the Circuit Court for permitting the obstruction of Broadway street by noisy and disorderly crowds.

The House Committee on Agriculture reported a bill to create a new executive department to be known as the Department of Agriculture.

Five thousand people attended the opening night of the opera festival in Cincinnati. Patti was sick on the second night and did not appear.

The Riddleberger bill repudiating thirteen millions of dollars of Virginia's honest debt, has been signed and delivered as the law of that State.

It is reported among Senators that Senator Ben. Hill is lying low in Philadelphia, his illness having been brought on by the last operation on his mouth.

Representative Carlisle has introduced a bill in Congress for the reduction of the tax on whiskey to fifty cents per gallon, and for removing all limit to the bonded period.

An eight-year old boy died at Point St. Charles, Canada, from excessive use of liquor. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of willful murder against the persons who gave him the liquor.

At Raleigh, N. C., yesterday, while Eldridge Blake and a man named Peebles, both white, were carrying Henry Jones, a negro cattle thief to a Magistrate for trial, Jones shot and killed Blake and escaped.

A fire at Versailles Sunday night destroyed three business houses owned by L. Woodbridge, Governor Thomas H. Porter, Mrs. M. C. Turner, and the dwelling of Miss Susan Sublett. Loss about ten thousand dollars; insurance $5,100.

The Willard Hotel Lottery Drawing has been again postponed. This time the excuse is that the Court of Appeals has not decided the legality of the lottery grant. Persons holding tickets will soon be raising a howl about these everlasting postponements.

Gen. Buell and Col. Polk Johnson would not be a bad gubernatorial team. How many papers in Western Kentucky will unite with that ticket? It will be the bleeding of the "blue and the gray" and will give a Western Kentucky man the first place on the ticket. [South Kentuckian.]

The Supreme Court of Tennessee having declared the funding bill unconstitutional solely because the coupons were made receivable for taxes for ninety-nine years, the Funding Board has applied to the court to so amend the decree as to permit the funding without the tax coupon feature.

Gov. Cornell of New York, has proclaimed the town of Greenwood, Steuben county, in a state of insurrection. The trouble is the Greenwoods want to repudiate $80,000 of bonds they subscribed to a railroad, which they claim, was never built. They have armed themselves and have been actively resisting the payment of interest with shot guns.

Tammany has gone over to the republicans in both houses of the Legislature. Johnson, republican, was elected clerk by the help of Tammany. In the Senate Mr. Potts called up his resolution to vest the appointment of committees in the Lieutenant Governor. The three Tammany Senators voted with the republicans and adopted the resolution, and the Lieutenant Governor will now appoint the standing committees.

Col. Thomas Laurens Jones, in a letter to the South Kentuckian, very effectively disposed of all objections to his conduct at the late Frankfort convention. He was not a delegate at all, and never sought to influence the delegates from Campbell and Kenton counties. He is a dignified gentleman always and does the fair thing everywhere. The people do not exactly belong to the office-seeker or office-holder, and they will have something to say in the next race for Governor. [Owensboro Post.]

It is reported that the Ways and Means Committee will recommend a reduction in internal revenue taxation to an amount aggregating $80,000,000. This result is proposed to be attained by reducing the tax on whiskey and tobacco, and by abolishing the tax on bank checks, matches and proprietary articles. The appropriations for the support of the Government for the next year will be $135,000,000, exclusive of pensions, which may be estimated at $60,000,000, and of interest on public debt, which may be estimated at $60,000,000—in all $255,000,000.

Eld. Joseph Ballou preached a very interesting discourse at Mt. Moriah, last Sunday.

Died last week, Leonard, son of W. O. Watts. His remains were deposited at the M. E. Church.

Mrs. Walls, mother of R. G. Walls, returned from Kansas a short time ago. L. P. Baugh has been visiting at this place during the past week.

Wm. Young, of College Hill, Ky., has sold his mill and property, and will soon leave his native State and move to Texas, instead of going to Eubanks Station, Ky.

H. P. Young and John Butt have formed a partnership in the goods business at this place. H. P. Young went to Louisville last week to purchase their stock.

R. R. Ragan sold a horse a few days ago to W. R. Cook, for $150. Adam Pease sold his farm on Buck Creek, a few days ago to a Laurel county man, for $150 cash.

The wholesale value of oysters sold annually in Boston is $700,000, in New York, $2,768,000, and in Philadelphia, $2,750,000.

Two lives were not lost, but saved, by a railroad accident at Newcomerstown, Ohio. A freight car was smashed by a collision, and in it were found two men insensible from cold. They had sneaked in for a free ride, the door had been locked, and, as they lay near the roof on some cotton bales, without room to move their limbs, a night at zero would have killed them if they had not by chance been discovered.

"Yes," he said to his confidential friend, "I am engaged to her and I suppose I ought to be content and happy, but somehow I am worried about a former attachment of hers. There's that infernal blackguard, Jones, who—"

"Why, bless my soul! You stupid fellow, she hates him like poison." "Yes, yes, I know—that's what troubles me. She hates him too bitterly not to have loved him once."

An old toper offered his 10-year-old boy a new nickel if he would fetch him a dark bottle that stood in the corner of the pantry shelf, without his mother's discovering it. The lad secured the prize and was making off with it, when his mother suddenly yelled: "What have you got in that bottle, Johnny?" "I don't know," answered the innocent boy; "it's labeled tomato sauce, but it smells just like dad's breath."

We are in receipt of some beautifully executed chromo-lithographic seed packets from D. LANDERT & SONS, of Philadelphia, the pioneer Seedmen of this continent. The artistic designs and coloring are so true to nature and superior to the ordinary illustrations as to be beyond comparison. But the merit of illustration is not the most important feature; 'tis the contents of the packets, and the quality of their seeds has been proved by tests extending up to a century. Their Almanac and Catalogue is the best yet, and should be in every country house-hold. It is mailed, post-paid, to all who apply for it.

Dr. C. R. Agnew, writing from Florida, says: "In this State a somewhat new problem presents itself, in the fact that all houses should be constructed without cellars, and so raised on underpinning as to allow a clean sweep of light and air beneath them. Indeed it is a question whether such a mode of construction should not be adopted everywhere for dwellings. I have for more than twenty years believed that cellar atmosphere is a most prolific cause of disease and death. I believe that it increases seventy-five per centum the risk from malarial disease all over our country. Through this State the native population, as by an instinct, raise their simple cabins three or four feet above the ground, and allow air and light to pervade the space so made beneath the ground floor. I advise all travelers to avoid those hotels and other domiciles in the South which are not so constructed."

The ten plagues of a newspaper office are: horses, poets, cranks, rats, cockroaches, typographical errors, exchange flouts, book canvassers, delinquent subscribers, and the man who always knows how to run the paper better than the editor does himself.

A Denver newspaper has libel suits on hand amounting to $11,000,000. People have an exaggerated idea of wealth of newspapers, and some one should explain to the men who have brought these suits that it would be impossible to collect half that amount from any editor in Denver.

A snowball stopped an elopement in Louisville. It was thrown by a boy in the street, knocking off the hat of the driver of the carriage in which the runaway couple were riding to a railroad station, and thus causing just enough delay to make them miss the train. Thus hindered, they were caught and separated by the girl's father.

AN AGED SINNER.—Jno. Mounts, a fine looking man, eighty years old, was discharged from the Penitentiary yesterday upon expiration of his sixth sentence here. Besides this, he has served two terms in the Kentucky State prison and one in the West Virginia Penitentiary. With time spent in jail he calculates that he has been behind the bars an aggregate of forty-four years, more than half his life.—[Ohio State Journal.]

A TREMENDOUS COW.—Probably the largest cow in the world is owned by Martin S. Stokes, of Greysville, Waite county, Ill. She is seven years old and weighs 3,000 pounds, 173 hands high, 10 1/2 feet long from the end of nose to the end of the buttock, 17 1/2 feet from the end of the nose to the end of the tail, 8 feet 9 inches around the girth, 36 inches around the forearm, and 31 inches across the hips. She has been exhibited in four States, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee. She is white and red, mostly the latter, well formed, and a perfect beauty; has two fine calves, one three years old and the other three months old. She was raised in Posey county, Indiana.—[Cynthiana News.]

Too often the "wisdom of words" explains the Gospel away. It is possible to refine a doctrine till the very soul of it is gone; you may draw such nice distinctions that the true meaning is filtered away. Certain divines tell us that they must adapt the truth to the advance of the age, which means that they must murder it and fling its dead body to the dogs. It is asserted that the advanced philosophy of the nineteenth century requires a progressive theology to keep abreast of it; which simply means that a popular lie shall take the place of an offensive truth. Under pretense of winning the cultured intellects of the age, "the wisdom of words" has gradually landed us in a denial of those first principles for which the martyrs died. Apologies for the gospel, in which the essence of it is concealed to the unbeliever, are worse than infidelity. I hate the defense of the gospel which raises it to the ground to preserve it from destruction.—[C. H. Spurgeon.]

PERSONAL.

—MR. GEORGE H. HUNTER is down with a severe cold.
—MISS HENNA LUMPHAM has returned from a protracted visit to Missouri.
—MISS MARY NEWLAND, who has been teaching school at Burlington, returned home yesterday.
—MR. SMITH BAINBRIDGE brought his lovely bride home, Tuesday evening, accompanied by Misses Adele Thorel, Sallie Harlan and Luella Bright and their brides.
—MR. BURNER ENGLISHMAN has moved his family to the Waters' place on the Danville pike, some six miles from town. The young folks will miss Miss Laura greatly.
—MR. CHARLES H. WARD, sole editor, proprietor, type setter and traveling correspondent of the Lancaster Enterprise, smiled, on the citizens of Stanford, a few days ago.
—MR. J. M. WRAY and family arrived from Bloomington, Ill., Tuesday. The little girls that she carried away return to us grown into handsome ladies. They all think there's no place like "our old Kentucky home."
—MR. W. E. PERKINS, of Bee Lick, is renewing his subscription, says he would not do without our paper for double the amount it costs. And yet some people complain that we ask only 50 cents more for two than for one paper a week.
—MR. SAM BURDETT, of Mt. Vernon, is here looking about him. The women are said to be full of candidates for Congress up that way, and Mr. Burdett's name is often and prominently mentioned for the position. His party might go further and fare worse.—[Frankfort Cor. Lohr Com.]
—WILL A. MCKOWN, a talented young lawyer of Somerset, and a sprightly correspondent of the INTERIOR JOURNAL, is a guest of Mr. Geo. G. Helm near town. This is a right good place for a lawyer to locate, and I am sure the surroundings would be pleasant for him.—[Hustonsville Cor. Danville Advocate.]

LOCAL MATTERS.

EXOTIC Bread and Cakes at all times at Dawson Bros'.
A CHOICE lot of both straight and Patent flour at McAllister & Bright's.
THE Turnpike bridge at the Junction was expected to leave at any moment last night.
THE proprietors of the Lincoln Mills wish it understood that they sell no flour by retail.
APPLES, Bananas, Coconuts, Oranges, and Lemons, just received at McAllister & Bright's.
THE Committee has changed the voting place for the Turnersville precinct from McKinney back to Turnersville.
IF the heavy rain of yesterday was general, Lincoln farmers are out of pocket by loss of fences and washed land many thousands of dollars.
SAVE COAL.—Our business must be settled up before the quarterly Court in March. We do not want to warrant any body, but we must have our money. McAllister & Lytle.

DR. F. O. YOUNG has been appointed to the position of Examining Surgeon for pension claimants in this county, and all who formerly came to Dr. Craig for examination will now go to Dr. Y. at Lancaster.

IT costs about $50 per year to carry $2,000 on your life in the Knights of Honor, and the thing is growing worse. Our advice to those who have not been bitten, is to steer clear of all mutual insurance concerns. They are a delusion and a snare.

CHEAP COAL.—War has broken out between the coal dealers in Stanford, and consumers are as usual, the gainers. The price has dropped from 20 to 16 and 17 cents, with a prospect of going lower. Hurrah for Davis. Three cheers for Nunnally.

THE SHANKS MURDER.—There have been no fresh developments in this matter, but there are rumors about that a blood-gate of light will be unlocked at the examining trial of the negro Johny Johnson today. It is not thought that he is the perpetrator of the deed, but that he knows all about it, is almost certain. The real murderer is said to be a white man, and the same who has been suspected of the numerous other robberies in that end of the county. The County Attorney, Mr. Miller, intends to make a searching investigation, and if possible bring the right man to justice.

GRAND Skating Tournament at the Rink Friday night. Admission 25 cents.
IMPORTED GERMAN KRAUT, Pickled Pigs Feet, &c., at McAllister & Bright's.
MR. J. T. HARRIS still keeps a full line of provisions. When in want of anything to eat, you can get it by calling on him.

THE whole face of the country is covered with water, and we only need the hosts to make our town look like the ancient Venice.

OUR splendid Merchant Tailor, Mr. H. C. Hupley, has been receiving new Spring and Summer goods for the last two weeks, and you would do well to call on him and get first choice.

COL. BRADLEY, of Lancaster, who was here yesterday, gave it as his opinion that there would be a hung jury in the Austin case. We hope, however, for the sake of justice and law that the Col. is for once mistaken.

RAIN! RAIN! RAIN!!!—If it were not for the Biblical promise that the earth shall no more be destroyed by a flood, we know of many people who would be looking around pretty lively for an ark to take refuge in.

In a telegram to the Courier-Journal, W. H. Miller says that "the County Attorney either knows nothing or refuses to talk." Now, it was Miller, and that confounded County Attorney would not talk to us, we would give him such a shaking that he would be glad to chat hereafter.

WATER SCOUT.—The rain yesterday came down in torrents, causing St. Asaph's branch and other water courses to get on the biggest kind of a "high." Uncle Nate Embury, who is the oldest man in the world, says that the town branch was never as high before. The bridge at the foot of Lancaster street was washed away, and water gates and much feeling along its course were swept off, creating great damage. For several hours the usually modest little stream looked much like the raging Niagara below its falls.

WE stepped into Mr. J. W. Hayden's Dry Goods store yesterday, and Mr. J. W. Rout, his attentive clerk, showed us some beautiful goods that had just gotten in, consisting of black and cream Spanish and Danielle Mirecourt and Coralline Lace; Millinery and Valenciennes Laces of every description; Chemise and Silk Corsets; the Bernhardt 3-button Kid Gloves, and a very handsome lot of cloth and glove-knit top Ladies' Shoes. They invite the ladies to call at once and examine these new and elegant goods, the like of which has not been seen in this market before.

Two negroes, Jim Ingram and Jim Embury, have been arrested and are now in jail for the murder of John Carr last Sunday night. The Coroner's jury has had several meetings and examined a number of witnesses, but being unable yet to find a verdict, has adjourned till Saturday. There is no direct evidence so far against either of the men arrested, though enough of suspicious circumstances have been revealed to hold them for examination. The bottom of the whole matter seems to have been in a church quarrel. John Carr, who was a respectable and honest man, and a steward in the church, objected to such penitential birds as Ingram and Embury, both have served terms for stealing, exercising as much church authority as they imposed on themselves, and a bad feeling had been smoldering in their breasts for some time, and there are rumors about that they had made threats against him. Ingram's actions on Sunday night and Monday morning are much against him, and although "the doth over much protest" his innocence, he may yet feel the latter draw. The colored people are greatly excited, and whispers of mobbing the guilty party are heard.

THE Skating Tournament to-night promises to be a very grand affair. Already there are more than a dozen bona fide entrancers, and judging from the skill and swiftness shown at practice Wednesday night, some fun may be expected. One man took all six rings and made three circuits in 2 1/2 seconds, which beats any thing done at the last tournament. The programme for to-night, as arranged by the Committee, is as follows: Doors open at 7, from which time till 8, regular skating will be enjoyed. Promptly at 8, the floor will be cleared and preparations for the Tournament begin. Each contestant will be allowed one swing around the ring previous to the tap of the drum. With this signal the start will be given, and the rings are to be taken on the first round. Two more rounds are to be run and the award is to be governed by the number of rings considered with the time made. There will be three disinterested judges, who will make the awards and decide all points of dispute. In the ladies ring there are to be at least five contestants. As this entertainment is the last of the kind of the season a big crowd is expected. Admission both to floor and gallery, 25 cents. None admitted free.

MARRIAGES.

RANSBY-FOLEY.—In Cincinnati, Tuesday, Mr. Louis H. Ramsby, the celebrated off-hand sign writer, of this place, and Miss Lucy A. Foley, of Lexington, were united in marriage. We congratulate Mr. Ramsby, on winning so attractive a partner, and trust that on doubling himself he will also double his business. They will arrive to-day, to spend a week with the groom's parents.

—MR. A. D. POWELL and Miss Sallie Moberly, of Irvine, Ky., aged respectively, 18 and 16, eloped Thursday night with the intention of going to Jeffersonville, Ind., and getting married, but being truthful children, they could not tell a lie when the Clerk asked their ages, and the document was refused them. They returned to Louisville, and from thence went to Lexington, where they will get the help of friends and try their fortune in Cincinnati. They are said to be the greenest couple that ever left home.

DEATHS.

—VANDERVOER.—Mrs. Vandervoer, the venerable mother of our townsmen, Mr. D. W. Vandervoer, died at her home in Casey county, Wednesday. A good old mother in Zion has gone to her reward at the ripe old age of over four score.

RELIGIOUS.

—Centenary Methodist church, at Richmond, Va., will have a clime of bells to cast $7,000.

—Bishop Scott, the oldest bishop of the M. E. Church, is dying at the home of his daughter in Delaware. His age is 82.

—Rev. C. W. Miller, of the South Methodist church, who has been dangerously ill in Lexington, with pneumonia, is convalescing.

—A Baptist minister immersed eleven persons in five minutes at Clarinda, Iowa, wading in and out of the stream with each. It was a freezing day, and he had good reason for haste.

—Rev. C. J. Flowers, pastor of the Main Street M. E. Church, of Covington, reports a powerful revival in his church. Within a few weeks 29 have professed sanctification, 55 experienced conversion, and 89 have joined the church.

—The interest in the Revised New Testament was short lived, and there is about as much prospect now of its being adopted as the only true translation as last year's almanac is to be used for this. Publishers did well though as they shored through about 2,500,000 at three or four times the cost of their manufacture.

—Mr. Barnes is preaching this week at the old Metropolitan Theatre, where crowds still flock to hear him. It is said that he will probably bring his labors to a close in Louisville about the 23d of this month. That being the anniversary of his consecration to the evangelistic work, he feels that he ought to make a new start for something higher on that day.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—J. W. Allen bought of T. L. Carpenter, 20 head of cattle at $41.50.

—One out of thirteen sheep was all the dogs left Mr. John W. Harp, of Fayette county, a few nights since.

—F. D. Albright, of this county, bought of Mr. Taylor, of Boyle, 50 tons of hay at 50 cents per hundred pounds.

—It is estimated that holders of cotton at Memphis have lost over half a million dollars by a recent decline in that staple.

—The administrator of Samuel Givens and others sold to Proctor, of O., 1,500 acres of knob land in Casey, for $1,000.

—John Woods has an ewe that has produced nine lambs within twenty-four months, and all were raised but one, which was killed.—[Somerset Reporter.]

—In view of the fact that Nashville is to have no races this spring, an effort is being made to have a four-day's extra meeting at Lexington, with fair chances of success.

—ATTENTION MULE MEN.—Remember the sale of B. F. Hudson, two miles from Lancaster, on the Danville pike, Feb. 21st. He has for sale one pair good work mules and eight yearlings ready for work.

—At Shelbyville, Monday, the following sales were made: Ten head 1,000 pound feeding cattle at $15.12 per head; ten good aged mules, ranging from $75 to $135.50; 40 rough yearlings and two-year-olds, from $15 to $25.

—It is estimated that over 500,000 saw-logs passed Calhoun for the Evansville market during the past six months. More than half of these have been white oak and poplar. This immense number of logs have turned into the hands of log dealers about $2,000,000.—[McLean County Progress.]

—LEXINGTON CATTLE DAY.—There were between 400 and 500 cattle on the market, but a good many were left over. No extra quality of cattle, prices ranging from $3 to $4c. Seventy-five to 100 mules on the market, selling from $125 to $150 per head. A great many common horses, selling from $25 to $100 per head.

—CINCINNATI.—The cattle market remains steady at $2.25 to $3.50 for common; $3.75 to $4.50 for good to choice butchers; $5 to $6.25 for fair to best shippers; feeding steers $1.50 to $3.25; stockers, $3.50 to $4.25. Hogs are active and firm at $5.15 to $7.50 for selected butchers and heavy shippers; common, $5.50 to $6.25. Sheep are in fair demand at 31 to 51 cents; lambs are scarce at 4 to 5c.

—An Atlanta correspondent of the Evening Green Democrat writes that prices are a little better than this time last season; car load lots of good, shapely young mules are selling at from $130 round for fourteen add a half loads, average, up to $140 for fifteen and a half, and fancy prices for solid sixteen hand lots. Small fourteen hand mules are in excess of the demand and sell low.—[Courier-Journal.]

LINCOLN COUNTY.

Engleman's Mill.
—Burdett & Co. will move their saw mill from this neighborhood in a short time.

—Several of our farmers are going to try their hands on sorghum. They say that it will yield more to the acre, and is better feed than corn.

—Mr. G. P. Bright has sold his lambs to Ben Robinson, of Garrard, at 5 cents a pound, to be delivered in June. Mr. Bright says that he is having extra good luck with them.

—Our citizens were somewhat alarmed last Saturday night, by seeing a large light. It was thought to be a house on fire, but upon investigation it turned out to be a broom sedge field of Tim Engleman's.

—Mrs. J. H. Engleman has been dangerously ill. Mr. Albert Luce and wife left Tuesday morning, for their home in Missouri. Misses Mollie and Annie Burdett, two of Garrard county's beauties, spent last week with Mrs. R. H. Rice.

—Miss Luella Bright has secured the school at Bright's School-house, and will commence teaching the young ladies how to shoot on the 27th of this month.

—While Sam Engleman was on his way from town one evening last week, his horse got scared at a pile of rocks by the side of the pike, and threw him off. His foot hung in the stirrup, the horse ran with him about fifty yards, and kicked him several times. Fortunately, the stirrup leather broke, or he would have been killed or crippled. He was considerably bruised, but not seriously hurt.

—Our Dramatic Club will play on the night of the 22d of Feb., the drama entitled, "Harry Delmar, or the Road to Ruin." This club is composed of good amateur talent, and they deserve a good audience. The proceeds will be donated to the Presbyterian church at Walnut Flat.

—Will James, who went West a few weeks ago, writes back to friends here, that Kansas is the place for every body. He is delighted with the breezy West. Miss Mollie Bricks who has been quite ill, we are happy to state is much better. Capt. Welch and Dr. O'wley attended the funeral of Mr. John Shank.

—Miss Rachie Allison, of Bourbon, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Judge Slurch of this place.

—Ton Nall "beared" the rib market with us last week. More strictly speaking, perhaps he beared the ribs and then "bullied" the price. Tom would be a success in the preparation of skeletons for anatomical illustrations. He is not only a polished man, but a manly polisher.

—The papers are again registering the changes on the charge of "nepotism" in and about Washington city. Of course we are all indignant over this thing. It is unnatural and monstrous that a man in high position should provide soft places for his relations. Still we will say—confidentially—we wish we had an uncle in some office fertile in patronage.

—MORE MERCURY.—On Sunday night, J. R. Napier, hearing a noise on his premises, went out to investigate. He soon discovered the marauder apparently crouching in the shadow of his smoke-house. Jim at once opened fire with his revolver, emptying every chamber at point blank range. The next morning he went out to identify the corpse. It was not there; but Tom (Lode's) buggy was, and riddled with balls. No inquest.

—An amusing writer in the Cincinnati Enquirer, dating from somewhere in Tennessee, is hugely indignant against the intensely monstrous fraud upon the Government mediated by Ridgeway, as shadowed forth in his design of securing and controlling the mortal remains of Guitane, and exhibiting the same as a source of private revenue. The writer justly—and apparently conscientiously—argues that if anybody has a right to run this show, the United States is the man. He sagely and logically contends that since it will have cost the nation a large amount to kill the game, the nation is justly entitled to the carcass and peltry. He further intimates that this thing well managed could be made the means of extinguishing the national debt, especially if we can obtain a sort of international copyright, securing to the American people the exclusive control of such exhibition, and protecting us against all bogus imitations. Evidently the interest and the dignity of the nation demand that this question should be gravely considered.

—GARRARD COUNTY.
Lancaster.
—The musical society is in full blast, numbering about thirty members.

—Jas. McQuerry was tried on a writ of lunacy, Wednesday, but discharged.

—Mrs. E. D. Potts is in Chicago on business. Hon. W. O. Bradley is in Mt. Vernon. Miss Effie Potts, of Richmond, is visiting Miss Mattie Bourne.

—The all absorbing topic is the Austin trial. The twelfth juror was obtained Tuesday morning, when the prosecution proceeded with his witnesses, eliciting nothing more, however, than was brought out by the Coroner's inquest, and which has been given in these columns heretofore. The Commonwealth examined about 20 witnesses and rested its case Wednesday afternoon, at 5 o'clock. Court reconvened at 7 o'clock, v. m. and defense examined a few witnesses to show the good feeling existing between Austin and his Aunt Hetty and to prove threats against her life by a negro, Sam Gibbs. The latter was not sustained. Old Court records and deed books were introduced to show that her brothers and sisters would, at her death, become heirs to her property, and in this way to prove her relatives were probably sufficiently interested in her death to have caused it. The defense has worked faithfully against a strong case and public opinion, but it is generally thought their labor will be ineffectual in securing an acquittal. It concluded its work about 9 p. m. Court adjourned till Thursday morning, when the jury was taken out to view the scene of the tragedy, after which, the argument of the case was commenced by the Commonwealth. The defense was arguing at a late hour yesterday afternoon.

—PULASKI COUNTY.
Eubanks Station.
—Jesse Osborn took the train here Monday for Kansas, where he hopes to engage in business more lucrative than that furnished by his capacity to "teach the young ladies how to shoot" in his native Kentucky home. Jesse is a clever young man, and we sincerely wish him success.

—To this writing there are 109 additions to the church at Double Springs. Among those who have joined are some of the ablest men in the community. About 80 of this vast number are to be baptized most of them to-day. Still the good work goes on. Last night about 25 who have not yet confessed the precious Savior came forward and gave their hands as expressive of the desire they have that the meeting should continue, as they were interested about their soul's salvation. We have every reason to believe that the work of regeneration is perfect in those who have confessed the Savior here, save in one instance, of which we still speak hereafter. The meeting has now been in progress sixteen days and nights; the best of order has prevailed at every session; the people seem untiring in their devotion, and it is not known now when it will close.

—A. W. Burrows took the train Monday at Waynesburg for parts unknown. He went to that place about two months ago a stranger in search of work, claiming to be a blacksmith by trade. H. W. Caldwell being in need of such a man, a contract was entered into between them. Weather being unfavorable for business, little was done in the smithing business. No money was ever paid over to Mr. Caldwell, and Mr. B. congratulated himself on his fortunate discovery of a hospitable home. At an early stage in the meeting at Double Springs, Burrows professed religion, and at once made himself very conspicuous in the worship, much so that every one was constrained to think him a wolf in sheep's clothing. Some of the brethren called on Mr. B., and talked the matter over with him, which he took offense and vowed he would never enter the church with them. In the meantime he formed the acquaintance of Asaie McMullin, a young widow who is thought to be partially insane since the death of her husband, and succeeded in his wooing, inasmuch that she has left home, property and friends, and they have skipped out for parts unknown. May he receive his just deserts.
